Collaboration Tools For Teams

Project teams may not always be in the same building, city or even country but the requirement to work together as a team to complete projects remains unchanged. While some project deliverables can be completed by individuals and shared via email updates, there are many tasks which demand collaboration between team members.

Ken Quast, Director of Technology, discusses advantages and disadvantages of collaboration tools for geographically distributed teams.

Business Analyst or Project Manager

By Denise Patten, Senior Business Systems Analyst

Performance Textile manufacturer, Polartec®, has many projects but no project managers. In this high-tech manufacturing environment, there are many established systems. Projects are related to enhancements that simplify user interfaces and electronic data interchange with business partners. These projects are managed by Business Analysts.

Expedition to Mars

Many thanks to Steve Lindquist, Peg Duggan, and Bernadette Donnelly for representing the PMI New Hampshire Chapter at AerospaceFest on May 5. This year, the focus was on an expedition to Mars. Kids and kids-at-heart were invited plan their own expedition to Mars on a NASA computer game. For the non-computer literate, there were crayons and images of the Curiosity rover, ATLAS rocket, and MAVEN Orbiter to color.
